

Dr. M. V. P. Yeaman Resigns Pastorate

Sunday, Dr. M. V. P. Yeaman tendered his resignation as pastor to the Presbyterian church in order to accept an official position in connection with the general denominational work of the Presbyterian church with headquarters at Washington, D. C.

For seven years Dr. Yeaman has been the minister of the local church. Dr. Yeaman is a Christian gentleman and should we make a period with this statement it would imply all that we could express from a full and free vocabulary. He has been one who sympathizes when troubles come and rejoices in times of sunshine and prosperity, and what we say of the Doctor applies as fully to his good wife.

Dr. Yeaman is a trained preacher in the pulpit and the pastorate as well and it is with deep regret that we as a citizen grasp the hand with a heavy-hearted good-bye. When a man of Dr. Yeaman's gifts leaves the pastorate it creates a vacuum that is hard to fill. We will miss him.

The congregation he has been serving will have a hard time to find a successor who can sermonize and present to them the gospel as has Dr. Yeaman done these seven years of faithful ministry.

Dr. Yeaman is a man who loves people, and every little child on the street, or business man in office or store he seemed to want to count his friend. He came to Mt. Sterling something over seven years ago. In that time the membership of the church has steadily increased, until it now has the largest number in its history. We understand the same is true of the Sabbath School. The congregation during Dr. Yeaman's administration has made many material changes along progressive lines. Improvements also, having erected a modern Sunday School building, installed a splendid new pipe organ, and remodeled the interior of the church house. The congregation is at sea as to who will become Dr. Yeaman's successor.

MAY BECOME PASTOR OF BAPTIST CHURCH

Dr. O. M. Huey, of Louisville, spoke to good audiences at the Baptist church Sunday morning and evening. The Doctor was here by an invitation of the pulpit committee, who are seeking a successor to Rev. Goldsmith, resigned. The audience were so pleased that the matter of a call was put up to Dr. Huey, who has promised an answer by the coming Sunday.

Sutton & Son Suffer Heavy Loss From Fire

Yesterday afternoon about 1:30 fire was discovered in the third floor of the Trimble and Sutton building, located on the corner of Main and Bank streets, and occupied by the furniture store of W. A. Sutton & Son. The room in which the fire was discovered was stored with mattresses, bedsteads and other pieces of furniture packed in excelsior, making the flames spread rapidly, and but for the quick and excellent fight made by the fire department the entire block would have suffered heavily. As it was the stock of Sutton & Son suffered a heavy loss, estimated in the neighborhood of $25,000, partially covered by insurance. The origin of the fire is unknown and the fire was the most disastrous this city has known in several years. Other concerns which were damaged by smoke and water are W. T. Hunt & Co., Norman Brookway, J. H. Brown and E. F. Gray.

A New Enterprise

W. T. Hunt and Earl Henry have rented of Marvin Gay a concrete-floored brick building on East High street to be used for a milk pasteurizing plant. The machinery has been purchased and will be installed and ready for business by November 1. This plant with modern machinery methods will produce all dairy products. Butter will be made in a churn with a daily 150-pounds capacity and the other products from this plant will be milk, cheese, etc. They will also be distributors for pasteurized milk secured from the best Jersey herds of the country.

This plant will be worth much and we gladly welcome these young men of vim into an industry worth much, not only to our milk producing farmers, but to the city as well. In the start it will require eight salaried persons to operate the plant and to this number others will be added as the increase of business may demand. Their payroll will be worth much to business interests of the city and every citizen should be a willing worker for and contributor to its success.

REVIVAL SERVICES

Beginning last evening, revival services will be held at the court house each evening until further notice, conducted by Rev. W. F. Chappel. Rev. Chappel is said to be a forceful and convincing speaker and the public is cordially invited to attend these services.

MISSION RESUMES MEETINGS

The Everett Gill Missionary Circle of the First Baptist church resumed their meetings after three months' vacation. The first meeting of the fall was held on the first Monday in October at the home of the chairman, Mrs. Joe Ashby Evans, West High street. The other officers are Mrs. Will Moore, vice chairman; Mrs. Lewis Mitchell, secretary, and Mrs. H. A. Babb, teacher. The circle is now studying the W. M. U. Manual and the lesson at this meeting was taught by Mrs. R. C. Goldsmith. After the study class refreshments were served during the social hour by the hostess, assisted by Mrs. James Gay. The second meeting of the month will be held on the afternoon of the third Monday at the home of Mrs. S. B. Carrington on Samuels avenue. All ladies interested in the study of missions are most welcome.

YANKEES STILL IN THE LEAD

The Yankees with Hoyt in the box, yesterday won their third game of the series by a score of 3 to 1. Hoyt was opposed by Nehf who allowed but 6 hits while the Giants got 10. This makes the second game Hoyt has won and makes the series now stand 3 to 2 in favor of the American Leaguers.

Sunday's game resulted in a victory for the Giants by the score of 4 to 2. In this game the opposing twirlers were Douglas and Mays.

HUSTLERS TWICE DEFEATED

The Winchester Hustlers were defeated Saturday and Sunday by the strong Maysville ball club, thereby giving the Maysville team a clear title to the semi-pro championship of Kentucky.

Schools the Issue In Coming Election

The following article from the pen of Fred O. Mays, of Camargo, is well worth the reading and careful consideration of our readers:

Perhaps in no other election in the state's history was the welfare of the schools so much the main issue as is the case this year. First, there are the two proposed amendments to the constitution that should be carefully studied and voted upon without regard to personal or party prejudices, and next, and even of more vital concern, is the election of two members to each of the county boards of education.

The first of the amendments proposes to remove the office of superintendent of public instruction from politics. This question seems to be provoking more heated controversies than any other, the opponents of the amendment maintaining that it will not do what is claimed for it. It is a well known fact, however, that in the years when the state executive officers are elected, the candidates for governor at the heads of the tickets of the two dominant parties are the only ones considered by the average voter. Few ever know even the names of the other candidates on the tickets. They are usually put on the ticket, as a regrettable matter of fact, by the politicians who dictate the ticket, because they will for some reason or other win more votes for the party than any others, and without regard to any special fitness for the office to which they aspire. As a rule, the men in our state best qualified to administer our educational affairs are either unwilling or are not financially able to sacrifice themselves through two strenuous, costly and offensive political campaigns, as is necessary under the present system, and then take a chance on being defeated. His election depends always upon whether he is on the ticket with the successful candidate for governor. Under the present system the schools of Kentucky cannot as a rule get the kind of man best suited to manage their affairs. If the amendment carries, the coming sessions of the legislature will be called upon to create a non-partisan state board of education who will have the power to select the superintendent of public instruction. The heads of our other state educational institutions have always been selected in such a way, it is hardly probable that such a man as Dr. McVey could have been secured as head of the University of Kentucky under the present system of election of the superintendent of public instruction.

The second amendment proposes to give financial aid to those counties which have not sufficient funds to maintain legal schools by giving ten per cent of the state's school fund for that purpose.

Also the first real test of the merit of the present system of managing the schools of the counties of Kentucky by non-partisan boards of education will be made. The success of the present plan, which is undoubtedly a good one, will depend upon the kind and amount of interest manifested by the citizens of the various counties in the next few days in selecting the men to fill the two places made vacant in all the county boards this year. Last year the system was new and unfamiliar to most people, and the interest in it was clouded by the excitement of the presidential campaign and the election of county superintendents. This year the welfare of the schools is almost the same issue. The people are free to concentrate their attention upon the task of finding the men best fitted to administer the affairs of the schools of the counties regardless of party affiliations or

Can Obtain Loans With Tobacco as Security

Persons interested in the proposed cooperative marketing association of burley growers apparently are much interested in the announcement by the Agriculture and Live Stock Loan Agency of the War Finance Corporation through its office at Louisville that financial aid is assured for the enterprise.

The condition under which this aid will be given were laid down in a statement issued at Louisville Sunday night and a ruling made that tobacco will be acceptable as security for advances to finance the marketing of the Kentucky tobacco.

Representatives of the proposed association were assured some time ago that aid would be forthcoming, but no definite ruling to this effect was made until a meeting of the committee of the War Finance Corporation Thursday.

The statement was said to have been drawn at that meeting but was not announced until Sunday night.

The ruling removes the last financial obstacle in the way of the success of the cooperative tobacco marketing plan, it is said.

Reports from the committee campaign office in Lexington indicate that the seventy-five per cent of the year's product necessary to the formation of the association will be reached by Nov. 15, the date set as the limit for this year's campaign to obtain signatures to the contract.

The way also is paved for similar associations for handling other agricultural products, it was pointed out. Loans to individuals for direct marketing of live stock and other farm products are made much easier, it was explained.

At the same time the statement issued by the War Finance Corporation Committee expressly denies aid to tobacco speculators and dealers who purchase tobacco for resale. Banks and trust companies which lend money to farmers or associations of farmers marketing their product directly can obtain loans from the War Finance Corporation for this purpose.

Millions Will Go To Growers If Pool Wins

Beginning a second intensive drive for the pledging of seventy-five per cent of the Burley tobacco crop of Kentucky, Ohio, Indiana and West Virginia, the Burley Tobacco Growers' Co-operative Association on Monday resumed the campaign for co-operative marketing of tobacco, instead of the former system of selling over loose leaf warehouse floors. Basing their calculations on the results of similar movements in the Pacific coast and adjoining states, promoters of the movement estimate that the adoption of co-operative marketing will add from 100 to 200 per cent to the market price of the product.

The loose leaf warehouse system is an outgrowth of the low prices paid for tobacco previous to 1905 and 1906 in hogsheads. Not only did the grower have to pay for the hogsheads, but in addition he had to pay warehouses and insurance charges, which ate heavily into the comparatively small return received for his product. The loose leaf system was devised as not only a means of saving the grower money, but a means by which the buyer might see practically the entire crop of tobacco, instead of the samples from the hogsheads by which he had to judge the quality of the entire hogshead, and thus know exactly what he was buying.

Prices for the 1905 crop were so low and the return so small to the growers that a movement to pool the tobacco crop off the market until the manufacturers were willing to pay more remunerative prices was started among the growers. Crops of 1906 and 1907, to the amount of about fifty per cent, estimated by some authorities as low as forty per cent, were pooled in the hands of the Burley Tobacco Society, of which Clarence Lebus, a wealthy farmer and tobacco grower, was president. The manufacturers still refusing to buy the pooled crops, as they were able to pick up outside the pool enough leaf to keep their plants running, the organized burley growers declared for a cut-out of the crop for 1908, that is in favor of a movement to plant no crop during 1908. It was recognized that if such movement proved successful the manufacturers not only would buy the pooled crops, but that the failure to grow a crop in 1908 would result in a considerable enhancement in the prices it would bring.

During the two pool years of 1906 and 1907, the counties which remained outside the pools enjoyed a higher price than which the pools brought about. These included the larger counties of the Blue Grass section, all large producers of burley tobacco. Public sentiment, however, was with the union growers in 1908 and large because of this fact the cut-out proved to be almost unanimous. In scattered sections growers outside the pool attempted to plant, but their plant beds were scraped and other evidences of violence if a crop was put out proved a powerful inducement to refrain from planting, so that the crop of 1908 was practically eliminated, as the union growers had planned.

As soon as planting time was past and it was seen that the burley district would grow no crop, negotiations were opened by the manufacturers which resulted in the sale of the pooled holdings of the farmers at a price twice as high as the price of 1906 on the loose leaf market. Not only did the manufacturers pay the price asked by the growers, represented by President Lebus and the district board of the Burley Society, but they paid $3 a hogshead additional in the final settlement with the growers. The 1906 crop sold on the Lexington market averaged $7.49. The 1909 crop brought $14.11.

The Burley Society, however, found difficulty in holding its lines together. In 1910 tobacco, under the influence of a large crop and no organized effort to maintain prices, dropped back to $7.66 a hundred pounds. Efforts were continued, however, to maintain an organization, with carrying results until the breaking out of the world war started prices upward again. In 1917, the year the United States entered the world conflict, burley leaf averaged on the Lexington market $28.60 a hundred pounds. In 1918 the average rose to $38.69 and the 1919 crop brought an average of $46.17 a hundred, the average for the district being $38.50 a hundred pounds.

Encouraged by the three exceptionally good years they had enjoyed the growers planted the largest acreage in the history of the industry in 1920. Had the crop season been favorable the largest crop in the history of the district would have been grown. Drouth when rains were needed during the growing season, rains when dry weather would have helped the crop and tobacco diseases, among them "wild-fire," cut down the crop heavily, and what promised at the outset to make a crop of 350,000,000 pounds, weighed out on the warehouse floors of the burley district at about 263,000,000 pounds.

In spite of this shortage, it was evident from the opening of the southern markets in July and August that Burley prices would be low, for North Carolina and South Carolina tobacco usually sell higher than burley. These indications were verified at the opening of the market, when prices were so low that an effort was made for a time to close the warehouses in Kentucky, an effort which failed because of a lack of financing. The growers had to sell, regardless of the price, because they could obtain no advances on their crops. The result of this situation was a price of $13.26 a hundred pounds on the Lexington market, and an average of a little more than $10 a hundred in the district. The crop, according to experts who figured out the expense, cost the growers 26 cents a pound to produce the tobacco.

Out of this tremendous slump in prices grew the present movement to form the Burley Tobacco Growers'

Co-operative Association, which is a marketing organization only. The crop is to be pledged for a period of five years, and unless seventy-five per cent of the crop of 1920 is signed up by November 15, 1922, the contracts, by their own terms, are void. If the seventy-five per cent minimum, set as the amount it is necessary to have pledged to control the market, is reached by November 15 next, the 1921 crop will be handled by the co-operative marketing association. If it is not reached by November 15, the 1921 crop will be sold in the old way—over the loose leaf warehouse floors.

In order to provide for the purchase of the real estate that will be needed to handle the pool crop, the association contract provides for the organization of a subsidiary corporation, which will have power to rent lease or purchase real estate and hold it in the name of the organization. Each grower on becoming a member pays an entrance fee of five dollars, which is to be used to defray the expenses of the organization, the fee to be in cash, tobacco or a note payable when the grower's crop is sold. Out of the money realized from the sale of his tobacco two-fifths of a cents a pound is to purchase the needed real estate, and the balance is used as the fund to the operation of redryers, store-houses and factories as authorized by the agreement.

The contract provides that the permanent organization is to be controlled by the growers themselves, no person not a tobacco grower being eligible for membership. The affairs of the association are placed in the hands of a board of directors elected by the growers, one from each of the twenty-two specified districts, and three chosen at large by the other twenty-two, these three being the only persons connected with the organization who may not be growers. Each grower, whether he grows an acre or a thousand acres of tobacco, has one vote.

In forming their preliminary or-the assistance of Judge Robert W. Bingham, Louisville publisher, who financed the movement; Bernard M. Baruch, of New York, former head of the war industries board, who gave advice as to the financing of the permanent organization and the purchase of real estate for storage and other purposes; and Aaron Sapiro, of California, legal adviser of co-operative movements in California, Washington, Oregon and Idaho, which have been extraordinarily successful in the co-operative marketing of nationally used products.

Mr Sapiro will return to Kentucky some time this month to aid in the final drive for the seventy-five per cent of the tobacco crop of 1920. He was in Kentucky last spring and explained the plan in detail to a group of Kentucky bankers, business men, professional men and tobacco growers and warehousemen, who unanimously endorsed the plan as a means of stabilizing the price of tobacco.

The Kentucky Bankers' Association has endorsed the plan and the Federal Reserve Board has issued a bulletin in which it classifies the warehouse receipts of such associations as the burley growers are forming as agricultural paper subject to a six months' credit and on which it will advance money to the member banks holding such paper. A committee, which went to Washington recently to interest the War Finance Corporation in the Burley growers' movement, received similar encouragement. This committee was headed by Judge Bingham and was composed of members of the organization committee of the association.

Success of the organization in the pledging of the 1921 crop, some of its leaders estimate, will mean an increase of from $50,000,000 to $100,000,000 in the amount paid to the growers of the district.

WHAT THE LONG GREEN TOBACCO COMPANY HAS DONE OTHER ENTERPRISES COULD DO.

Five months ago the Long Green Tobacco Company of this city began shipping their products, and as the results of the sales of three men, continuously on their territory, have sold more than 1,500 retail dealers distributed over eight states, and have realized an aggregate of more than $10,000, one-half of which has been distributed with our merchants. This product is strictly indigenous to the bluegrass section and because of the white burley qualities already 68 wholesalers and jobbers in different states have engaged to handle the Long Green.

During this period of five months such a demand has been made that it is now necessary to increase the output, having been introduced alone on merit into every county in Kentucky north of the C. & O. railroad. Addison Baldwin, president of the wholesale and retail tobacco company of Maysville, an expert tobaccoist, credits this Kentucky product as the best seller on the market. This is certainly a testimonial worth while.

It was such small factories that started Atlanta a-growing and this factory may do as much for Mt. Sterling. Atlanta, Ga., talked and worked for Atlanta, with Birmingham, Ala., and Memphis, Tenn., using efforts backed by the iron resources of Birmingham and the timber and agriculture of Memphis, together with the Mississippi river transportation as her rivals, has moved on until she is now called the Chicago of the South. To attain to this it required time and labor, talk, merit, pluck and push. Give us many small factories like the Long Green Tobacco Company and we will make of Mt. Sterling an Atlanta.

AMENDMENTS

At the approaching November election there are two constitutional amendments to be presented to the people. One is a 10 per cent distribution and the other is in regard to removing the educational department of our government from politics. Just what the people should do in this matter we are yet undecided. We note that the great majority of school principals and superintendents favor the passing of both amendments. Looking at this matter squarely at this juncture, we cannot observe an effective elimination from politics. Should the election go before the people politics would participate in the act and the result would be political change the matter and make it appointive and we have the matter of just one removed from the people and the appointive power would do just as they have ever done, the political color being according to the political appointive majority.

However, a wise elective or selective power selects men who have supervision over the entire patronage regardless of politics and as we see it now, we are playing only to the minority power now in the saddle. We hope to become decided on these pending questions and when we are we shall present our opinions to the voting public.

NO TIME FOR DELAY

It is now time for our people to act if we are to begin work on the good roads system, completing the link from here to the Clark county line at an early date. In a letter from the State Highway Commission to Mr. R. G. Kern, it is stated that the State and Federal governments are now ready to go ahead with this project, and it is urgent that rights of way on this thoroughfare be secured immediately—for if we fail to act at once the money will be expended elsewhere.

With the rights of way secured between here and the Clark county line, making the roadway 60 feet wide, contracts will be let and work begun at once. We hereby call attention to land owners along this short span and urge them to see Roy G. Kern or Mark A. Prewitt at once in order to complete this initial step. Now don't hesitate but act to-day for the sooner this is attended to the sooner will this road be completed.

W. C. T. U. Urges War on Tobacco

An appeal to the Kentucky Woman's Temperance Union to fight steadily for law enforcement in the state was made by Mrs. Anna B. Wheeler, Louisville, corresponding secretary of the organization in her annual report before the convention of the state organization at Danville Saturday. She declared that the best place to begin teaching reverence and obedience to "all law" is in the home.

After reviewing the work of the organization during the 21 years she has been connected with it Mrs. Wheeler cautioned the delegates that the work of the organization is not finished. "There is law enforcement," she said, "to be looked after. The prohibition law is marvelously well enforced when we consider how new it is, the money, political influence, the unconverted brains and the poor old sets with depraved appetites, all joined in close, compact organized endeavor to defeat enforcement and some front pew church folks aiding and abetting them. This will not last long. We need fear no defeat from folks who do not have audience with God.

"May I name of the outstanding 'giants' to be conquered? Lawlessness, not some particular law, but reverence, and obedience to all law, and the best place to begin is at home.

"Legalized gambling must be overthrown, the 'movies' must be made wholesome, or put out of business. The soft drink stand, all too often a den of vice and drunkenness, the degrading dance hall, the pool room, promoters of idleness and spend-thrifts making worthless citizens. Immorality in dress must go, many changes must be brought out in society and last I shall mention the largest of all the 'giants' is the tobacco evil which also must go if our government is to stand and be the leading nation of the world and our citizenship become the Christian power we claim and ought to be."

Mrs. Wheeler urged the organization to continue its fight against cigarettes until it shall be unlawful to "have, give, buy, or sell cigarettes or cigarette material."

During the year the state president and the corresponding secretary attended twelve district meetings, Mrs. Wheeler said in her report. Unions at Central City and Parkland have been reorganized and new unions organized at Butler and California during the year.

GOOD SITE PURCHASED

The Mt. Sterling Bottling Works Co. has made a purchase of a carload of bottles to be used in their 1922 business. The business of this company is increasing to a volume that demands both the enlarging of the plant and the addition of labor.

Some men are smart enough to acquire a reputation for being liberal because they give away things they use themselves.

If you could take trouble out of the world, joy would become so monotonous that you would raise trouble, if only for variety's sake.

Mrs. W. P. Huntington was hostess to the card club of which she is a member, entertaining Friday evening at her home on North Sycamore street. Mrs. Clayton Howell made the highest score and was awarded the prize—a dainty hand-made handkerchief. At the conclusion of the game Mrs. Huntington served a delicious supper from the card tables. Her party included Mrs. Josh Owings, Mrs. Jack Owings, Mrs. John M. Barnes, Mrs. Joseph C. Bogie, Miss Lizzie Prewitt Coleman, Mrs. Charles A. Lindsay, Mrs. A. C. Bogie, Mrs. C. W. Kirkpatrick, Mrs. John Speer, Miss Suzette Johnson, Mrs. B. Frank Perry, Miss Bess Shackelford, Miss Eliza Harris, Mrs. Katherine Goodpaster and Mrs. John Stofer and Mrs. Clayton Howell.

Produce Review

Less cream came to the creameries this week than was received a week ago, and paying prices are generally higher for butterfat. Consumption continues on a liberal scale.

Fresh eggs are in light supply and good prices, but inferior qualities and held stock are pressing for sale.

Markets on live poultry are ruling lower, and this condition is reflected by paying prices in the producing territory. All reports indicate that there is a large crop of poultry to be marketed and prices are lower than last year.

Possibly a rich man hasn't the liberty a poor man thinks he has, but the p. m. would like to try the role of riches for a brief engagement.

The average girl who works down town has to fly home from her work, help get her supper, do the dishes and get a shirtwaist done before she goes to bed, so this advice from the women's column in one of the newspapers will make her smile. "My dear girl who works down town, this is what you must do upon returning home from your work in the evenings. Go at once to your room. Remove all clothing worn during the day. Take a warm bath and then braid your hair loosely down your back and lie down and take a nap, rub your body gently with alcohol or toilet water; dress slowly and go down stairs to the evening meal. By following out this plan you will be the coolest and most refreshed person at the table."

Funny world! Just about the time we think we are climbing, some calamity stares us in the face, and knocks our props from under us.

AN HOUR OF INTENSE CHILL

This report, were it not that we know the man who told the story, we would class fishy. It was four o'clock Friday morning that one of our fruit and vegetable dealers entered Lexington as a cold wave was passing. He said he felt just as if he would freeze. Horses could not stand to face the chilling wind. This intense cold lasted about 60 minutes and the warm wave which continued during the day took its place. Such change of temperature is so unusual that it is hard to believe, but this story is real.

A FINE OLD HOME PAPER

These Fine Old English Gentlemen These magazines with gravures and all these works of art,

Are very well for city folks who live
by dint of mart;

But give me first and foremost, I hold it is the prime—

That fine old home town paper—one of the good old time.

The printin' isn't perfect, the ink's not uniform,

The type is set by hand, perhaps,
considerably overworn,

The dear old press—I know it well—it's covered o'er with grime—

But it prints that old home paper—
one of the good old time.

I look for it each week as regularly it comes,

And when the postman brings it in, I drop all other chums,

I drink it in, from start to fin, ridiculous and sublime,

That fine old home town paper, one
of the good old time.

Smith's cat may have some kittens;
Jones is putting in new pumps,

My girl chum has got married and the kids have got the mumps.

Jack Wiltsey's built a lean to, Johnson's roses upward climb;

Oh! I love the old home paper, boys,
one of the good old time.

Blood Will Tell In United States

Fifty-six years ago at Appomattox two great bodies of men, one clad in blue and the other in tattered gray, decided to stop fighting and live together in peace thereafter.

Few, alas, of those men are left now. The other day the "boys" of the Grand Army held their annual reunion at Indianapolis. Shortly the surviving fighters of the Confederate army will meet at Chattanooga.

But it will not be long before these handful of glorious blues and the superb grays will be compelled by circumstances to discontinue their national gatherings.

Well, they all belonged, these boys, to a wonderful age in our history. They made America. For one thing, valor in battle gave notice to the whole world that this nation, united, could not be trifled with. And the moment that it was learned that their grandsons were to join in the world war, intelligent men everywhere—even in Germany—knew that the conflict was all but over, over there.

The heroic blood of the men of 1861-65 courses through the veins of millions of 20th Century Americans. In the last analysis, both the blue and the gray fought for democracy, and they who fear that the descendants of such men will permit autocracy of any breed—whether ancient Hohenzollernism or mongrel Lenin-Trotskyism—to raise its head in this land, are faint-hearted Americans, indeed.

A refrigerator is a great institution for cold storage purposes, but it is a poor source of inspiration.

MARTYRS AND MENACES

We are all familiar with the memorable scene in Mrs. Ruggles' kitchen (The Birds' Christmas Carol) when Mrs. Ruggles, distraught and determined, struggled to implant the rules of polite behavior in the minds of her nine harum-scarum youngsters during the space of a few fleeting hours. The scene was occasioned by their almost immediate appearance at Mrs. Bird's dinner table and their mother's terror lest they conduct themselves in too outrageous a manner.

Today mothers are confronted with the same problem; though in a less acute and humorous degree. Children go forth to take part in a larger group than the immediate family one and unless we have managed wisely and surely from the very beginning, we are beset with the same misgivings which Mrs. Ruggles endured; the almost certain knowledge, that they may cause us mortification and chagrin.

It may be in the home that this realization comes. How many mothers, entertaining a caller, have suffered vexation because of the willful demands and interruptions of an ill-behaved child? How many have experienced the disagreeable surprise of finding that habit of untidiness, inconsiderateness and inattention, overlooked at home become appalling stumbling blocks at school? Outsiders look upon this child with mingled indignation and pity. Indignation that his parents have allowed things to come to such a pass; pity that the child must face existence so handicapped at the start.

The mistaken devotion which takes for granted that all restriction to a child's desires means deprivation, which cannot bear to see a child suffer temporary disappointment or punishment, allows him to develop an individuality which later will sap and prey upon all other individuals with whom he comes in contact.

The mother who trails after her children all day, picking up mislaid playthings and articles of clothing, who makes countless trips upstairs in answer to repeated calls after they are supposed to have gone to bed, who rises to shut doors left swinging as they rush in and out, who responds wearily and patiently to ceaseless demands and questions flung at her as she tries to read or write, and who has never really had a moment's repose during her children's waking hours; instead of being a martyr is a menace, for her children will become the careless, arrogant, selfish men and women of the next generation.

The mother who determines that her children must abide by the standard which requires painstaking effort and responsibility, who demands the same degree of courtesy and consideration to be extended toward her as she extends to her children, who expects them to respect her rights as truly as she respects theirs, will find herself blessedly relieved of mortification and chagrin and she will know the joy of a certain sureness and repose which will increase her days in the land of the living, no matter how filled they may be with maternal duties.—Margaret Hardin.

An open winter was prophesied today by Gene Dunning, who for fifty years has been Fort Dodge's weather prognosticator. Mr. Dunning has not missed on his predictions in 20 years. He has kept a daily weather record for a half century.

"If for three days before and six days after the sun crosses the equator a south to southeasterly wind is blowing it indicates a 'mild winter,'" declared Mr. Dunning. "It may be harder than last year, but by no means a hard winter."

The road of happiness, dear brethren, is not a railroad; it sometimes leads you in sad and thorny ways, and over dark and thorny ways; but hear many a sweet "God bless you" on the rocky way; and on the seas you clasp pale, drowning hands, and lead the lost ones to shore, where all the harbor bells ring, "Home, Sweet Home."

The Bright Side of the Editor's Life

Everybody has written about the trials and tribulations of a country editor, but nobody has ever written about his joys.

He stands ahead of the preacher, the lawyer and the public speaker, because he never talks to empty benches, but speaks in all the homes where his paper goes. He never makes impromptu speeches which generally disgust the audience, but writes with deliberation and premeditation. The preacher's influence for good seldom reaches further than his congregation, while the editor's field for good reaches all the congregations in the county. The lawyer makes a great speech in the court house and only one or two hundred people hear him, but when the editor writes a good editorial it is copied in the various papers in the state.

The editor distributes more flowers than a florist and he asks nothing in return for them but thanks. The editor has an opportunity to do the individual citizens a service and he never hesitates to do it if consistent with his obligations to the public. The editor has the greatest opportunity to convert men and women to his way of thinking on public question he thinks right. As the lighthouse on the shore warns ships from the rocks the editor can warn the public from frauds and fakers. The editor has the greatest opportunity to protect society from evil by standing for law and creating public sentiment for it.

The editor never tires of boosting his town and county and if both do not grow it is not his fault. He helps the deserving young men with words of commendation and restrains the old by words of warning. His field of usefulness is broader than any one else in the community and if he does not get any returns for his efforts for betterment he has sufficient reward in seeing things get better. He rejoices in his opportunity for service to his fellowman, his town and his county and goes on his way rejoicing, whether or not he gets any return for it.—Elizabethown News.

Cutting Vines After Frost Saves Rotting of Sweet Potato Crop

When sweet potato vines were cut immediately before or after a frost no losses resulted in the stored tubers while 88 per cent of them rotted when the vines were not cut following a frost, according to results of experiments conducted by the Kentucky Agriculture Experiment Station to determine the best method of harvesting this crop. The experiments also showed that wrapping each potato separately resulted in more rotting than leaving them unwrapped. The rotting also was more severe in an open package than it was in a closed package. Sweet potatoes already are being harvested in many sections of the state and farmers will profit by removing the vines should frosts occur before the entire crop is dug, according to A. J. Olney, under whose direction the experiments were conducted.

The potatoes in the experiment were handled according to the general recommendation made for farm conditions. They were placed in a dry room having a temperature of about 70 degrees where they stayed for two or three weeks to complete the curing process after which the temperature of the room was reduced to about 60 degrees. The experiments showed that it is preferable to keep the tubers in small containers rather than in large bins. The ones in the experiment were kept in crates. Artificial heat should be provided if necessary to maintain a temperature of 70 degrees in the curing process, specialists say.

From the time that they are dug until they are used the potatoes should be handled with care to prevent the bruising of any kind since this encourages rotting. The importance of separating the cut and the bruised tubers from the sound ones cannot be too strongly emphasized, the specialists say. Under no conditions is it advisable to store injured or bruised potatoes, since rot is nearly always first found in tubers of this kind. Sorting over the potatoes after they have been placed in storage encourages rotting, according to results obtained in the experiments.

The most ideal storage conditions for sweet potatoes are found in a dry cellar or well insulated room where proper ventilation has been provided. A cellar in which there is a furnace is a good place to store the tubers, the specialists say.

Green Sorghum Makes a Poor Quality Silage

Sorghum or cane that is to be used for silage is not ready for silo until two or three weeks after corn has reached the safe stage and should not be put up until that time if farmers wish it to make the best feed, according to Ralph Kennedy, crops extension specialist at the College of Agriculture. Many Kentucky farmers have been dissatisfied with the results they obtained from sorghum silage because the crop was put up too green with the result that the silage became sour, according to the specialist. Of the 11,000 silo owners in the state more than 200 of them will fill their silos with corn and sorghum or sorghum alone which has proved to make as good silage as corn when cut at the proper stage and packed. Sorghum in Kentucky will be ready for the silo from now until about the middle of October, specialists say.

During that time the crop will reach a stage where it is quite mature. The seeds will be hard enough that when they are squeezed between the thumb and forefinger the nail is required to cut into the seed. This is about the same stage that is necessary in making good syrup from the sorghum and provided the crop is placed in the silo at this stage and well packed about the edges as well as in the center will make good silage. Growers should not hesitate to remove an ample amount of seed from stalks for all purposes before filling the silo since experiment has shown that many of the seeds especially those of the sweet sorghums, pass through the animals without being digested. The seed is ripe enough to grow before the crop should be cut and the heads can be readily dried under a roof protected from rain. Sorghum fields in Kentucky produce seed of exceptional purity and growers profitably can save all the seed they will need. A field that will grow about ten acres of corn silage will produce fifteen tons of sorghum silage, thus making this crop a valuable one for winter feeding. When properly put up sorghum silage is worth almost as much as corn silage and in many cases has proved to be just as good. Its use is becoming more general in the state, according to Mr. Kennedy.

Of all base beings an ingrate is the worst, and gratefulness is co-extensive greatness.

Money For Tobacco Growers

Mr. Farmer—When you deliver your tobacco to the Burley Tobacco Growers' Co-Operative Association you are going to need some money, and you are going to get it.

Ninety-five Per Cent of Your Bankers are for you in this proposition and will advance you the money, through your association.

The Federal Reserve Bank Board says your local bankers can get the money from the Federal Reserve Bank if they need it.

The United States Government, through the War Finance Corporation (organized for the purpose of helping the farmer), will loan at least fifty per cent of the market value of your crop to your association, which will turn it over to you.

All You Need to Get the Money on Your Crop is to get the seventy-five per cent of all Burley tobacco in your Association. The rest is easy.

Sign Your Crop Immediately and get the benefit of the marketing plan for this year's crop, or write for contract to

NEXT BOOM MAY

BEAT ALL RECORDS

Many keen observers are beginning to lean toward the belief that the stock market has become definitely active in discounting the next epoch of prosperity, which is likely to transcend all other boom times gone before.

The advance of the steel stocks from steady to higher levels is based on actually improved business conditions. Pittsburgh advises indicate that the production of steel is now approximately at the rate of 33 per cent capacity, which compares with a 30 per cent rate in August, and about 20 per cent in the very dull days experienced in the middle of July.

When this improvement is considered in light of the fact that 50 per cent of capacity, even before 1914, was considered very low, we have a fair idea of what further improvement is highly probable, regardless of the assumption that the United States is to catch up with the unusual housing and public utility requirements. The present rate of production is something like 17,000,000 gross tons of ingots a year, and this production is only about what was considered the minimum tonnage possible before the war, says Sugarman's Indicator.

Some men go into politics with the idea of leaving footprints on the Sands of Time, while others are lucky if they get out without having their thumb prints taken.

Some folks follow instructions about keeping the saw in the log, but keep it too still for business.

Home Town Paper Week

It is very rare that the average newspaper boosts its own business, but gives quantities of space boosting the affairs of others.

Somebody suggested that it was time for the newspapers of the country to adopt a week in which their own business should be given precedent, and The Advocate thoroughly endorses the idea.

The date set is the second week in November, from the 7th to the 12th, including that great world event, Armistice Day.

The official title for the week will be "Subscribe for Your Home Town Paper Week."

Thousands of papers will join in this event, and our readers will hear more about it as times goes on.

Ever ready to help in any cause that is in the interests of a better community, better living conditions, and better government, we now ask the readers and advertisers of The Advocate to turn in and lend a hand during "Subscribe for Your Home Town Paper Week" and boost for us.

BAD BACK TODAY?

Backache is usually kidney-ache and makes you dull, nervous and tired. Use Doan's Kidney Pills for weak kidneys—the remedy recommended by your friends and neighbors. Ask your neighbor.

J. M. Montjoy, miller, Queen street, Mt. Sterling, says: "I know Doan's Kidney Pills can be depended upon for any kind of kidney trouble. I used them when my kidneys were giving me trouble and they cured me up in good shape. At times my back had a weak and painful feeling, especially when I would go to rise from a stooping position. My kidneys were irregular in action and showed they required attention. I began using Doan's Kidney Pills and was soon helped."

GIVE CREDIT AND YOU'LL EARN IT

Don't hesitate to express your appreciation of the other fellow's merits. It will please him and it will raise you in the estimation of all others.

Try it. If you have men working under you, speak up and give them credit. Don't wait until they make mistakes and jump on them. It makes bad blood and causes little good.

Try it for just one week. Stop finding fault. Be on the lookout for merit in your men. The chances are you will find something to praise. And just keep on giving credit for a whole week to the men you have been finding fault with heretofore.

You will have all the men on your side. They will do better work and more of it. Incidentally, you will become popular, and eventually the men will give you credit for handing it to them, says Sugarman's Indicator.

CARDUI HELPED REGAIN STRENGTH

Alabama Lady Was Sick For Three Years, Suffering Pain, Nervous and Depressed—Read Her Own Story of Recovery.

Paint Rock, Ala.—Mrs. C. M. Stegall, of near here, recently related the following interesting account of her recovery: "I was in a weakened condition. I was sick three years in bed, suffering a great deal of pain, weak, nervous, depressed. I was so weak, I couldn't walk across the floor; just had to lay and my little ones do the work. I was almost dead. I tried everything I heard of, and a number of doctors. Still I didn't get any relief. I couldn't eat, and slept poorly. I believe if I hadn't heard of and taken Cardui I would have died. I bought six bottles, after a neighbor told me what it did for her.

"I began to eat and sleep, began to gain my strength and am now well and strong. I haven't had any trouble since. I sure can testify to the good that Cardui did me. I don't think there is a better tonic made and I believe it saved my life."

For over 40 years, thousands of women have used Cardui successfully, in the treatment of many womanly ailments.

If you suffer as these women did, take Cardui. It may help you, too. At all druggists. E 85

How Many Trees a Day Does the Public Read?

The paper you are reading was once a tree. This newspaper is printed on what is commonly called newsprint and it is made from pulpwood.

The annual consumption is two million tons of newsprint a year, according to the American Forestry Association, and that means a strip of paper as wide as the regulation newspaper and about forty million miles long; half the distance to the sun, which is ninety-two million miles away. The annual consumption would make a two-foot wide ribbon of newspaper around the world 1,600 times. Some trees!

More than one-third of our pulpwood comes from across the Canadian border, and Canada, profiting by our mistakes, is now taking steps to forbid the cutting of timber at a rate more rapid than its growth. That means primarily that our annual importation of Canadian pulpwood has practically reached the maximum and for the other two-thirds at least we will have to look after ourselves.

"Paper Week" will be the week beginning October 31, with Thursday, November 3, as the date of the meeting of the American association itself. The National Paper Trade Association has announced October 31 as the date of the meeting of the merchants and distributors, while the balance of the week will be devoted to meetings of the affiliated association, most of which like that of the National Paper Trade Association, and the American Paper and Pulp Association, will be held in Chicago.

Few of us care much about the other fellow's business, but it so happens this phase of the forest products situation is of a piece with a problem that touches our whole economic life, for, without forest products, business cannot go on. We sight our end of it to show the tremendous consumption of trees going on every day, to say nothing of loss by fires that sweep the forest areas. The American Forestry Association is campaigning for forest policy legislation. Every publisher in the country should be behind this campaign.

IRVINE HAS $8,000 FIRE

The homes of R. J. Reed and W. G. McIntosh, at Irvine, Ky., together with practically all of the contents, were destroyed by fire yesterday afternoon about 3 o'clock. The blaze was caused by the overturning of an oil stove in the home of Reed. The fire which for a time threatened the entire residential block, was held in check by a bucket brigade until the arrival of the Louisville & Nashville fire department. The loss was estimated at approximately $8,000.

Virginia Weed Growers Pool a Big Success

Elated by the success of its pool of 1920 suncured tobacco, which resulted in the recent sale of the entire crop of the pool members—165,000 pounds—at an average of $16.25 per hundred as compared to $9.00 received by growers who sold their crops in the old way, the Virginia Suncured Tobacco Growers' Association has begun a campaign to enroll all producers of such tobacco in the state for a 1921 crop pool. It is estimated that the 1921 crop will total more than 4,000,000 pounds.

The 1920 crop pool recently was sold in one lot for approximately $200,000. The members of this pool were located mainly in the area composed of Caroline, Louisa, Hanover, Fluvanna and Goochland counties. The association for 1920 had 62 members. As the 1920 crop was rated as of inferior quality the members of the pool were much gratified by the price obtained.

The lot of tobacco fills more than 1,000 hogsheds, and as soon as the tobacco can be examined by the buyers and paid for, the association announces it will distribute the net proceeds to each farmer, which will be within a couple of weeks.

The success of the Virginia venture is expected to prove of great interest to tobacco growers in the two Carolinas and Kentucky in connection with a co-operative scheme for marketing by the farmers of the entire tobacco crop of the four states. In Virginia, sufficient farmers have signed up to put the venture over, and the campaign is gaining headway in the other three states.

Should the present campaign to sign up a pool of all the suncured tobacco growers of Virginia prove successful they will handle more than 4,000,000 pounds of tobacco, most of which is raised in the vicinity of Richmond. In order to put over the pool, it must be completed by November 1. A large percentage of the crop has been already signed up, and the committee is confident that when the price obtained for the 1920 crop becomes known to the farmers they will have no difficulty in signing up 75 or 80 of the growers of this kind of tobacco by that time.
